Rulemaking 01-10-024

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE'S RULING
REGARDING RECENT ELECTRONIC NOTICES TO PARTIES

By this ruling, I am memorializing the following electronic notices I sent out earlier this week:

(1) An email notice on July 15, 2002 that read as follows:

I am now the ALJ assigned to this proceeding regarding the allocation of DWR contracts (taking over on this issue from ALJ Walwyn). By this email, I am extending the deadlines for filings as follows:

Utility and DWR comments due:	July 19
Workshop:	July 26 (10 am to 4 pm, SF Courtroom)
Replies due:	July 30
Utility/DWR responses to replies:	August 5

At the workshop, the utilities and DWR should be prepared to briefly summarize their allocation proposals and recommendations on other issues (e.g., dispatch responsibility, frequency of allocation, calculation of net-short position, etc.). In particular, please also highlight the differences across proposals. I will have questions, as may staff--and interested parties will have an opportunity to ask questions about the filings before finalizing their replies. Please bring name tags to set up at the speakers seats for the court reporter.

All filings should be served electronically to me at meg@cpuc.ca.gov and a hard copy should also be sent to me at PO Box 210 Volcano, CA 95689.

(2) An email notice on July 16, 2002 that read as follows:

By this email, I am informing the utilities that their filings, now due on July 19, must include a proposal for DWR contract allocation that implements the policy of allocating to each utility specific DWR contracts, for which the utility will have full operational responsibility and control.

These directions were sent electronically to ensure the timely receipt by the utilities and interested parties.
